Introduction of Multistate Water Exclusion Endorsements

About This Filing

This filing introduces endorsements to replace the current Water Exclusion in ISO policies for the Dwelling Policy Program.

New Forms

We are introducing:

- ◆ DP 16 09 01 09, Water Exclusion Endorsement (For Use With Form DP 00 02); and
- ◆ DP 16 10 01 09, Water Exclusion Endorsement (For Use With Forms DP 00 01 and DP 00 03).

Revised Form

We are revising DP 04 95 12 02, Water Back-Up And Sump Discharge Or Overflow.

We have used a format of ~~striking through~~ deletions, underlining additions and inserting a revision bar in the left margin to indicate changes from the 12 02 edition to the 01 09 edition. Concurrent with implementation, the 01 09 edition will supersede the 12 02 edition.

Filing DP-2008-ODPRU contains the related rules filing.

Background

In In re Katrina Canal Breaches Litigation, 466 F. Supp. 2d 729 (E.D.La. 2006), the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Louisiana examined the applicability of water damage exclusions, which contained the undefined term "flood", in several different homeowners insurance policies. With respect to the applicability of the exclusion(s) to the damage(s) at issue in this case, the court stated, in part:

It is the considered opinion of this Court that because the policies are all-risk, and because "flood" has numerous definitions, it reasonably could be limited to natural occurrences. Simply put, the language of the ISO Water Damage Exclusion chosen by the insurer is unclear. Indeed, the broad definition defendants seek to employ—that is that the term "flood" means the inundation of usually dry land by water—makes the remaining part of the exclusion superfluous. The ensuing words "waves, tidal water, overflow of a body of water or spray from any of these, whether or not driven by wind" all are instances relating to natural events which can cause inundation of usually dry land. Thus, to use the broadest definition of the term "flood" in interpreting the exclusion, would render the rest of the clause useless.

Subsequently, the United States Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals overturned, in part, the decision of the Eastern District Court in In re Katrina Canal Breaches Litigation, 495 F.3d 191 (5th Cir. 2007), cert. denied, 128 S. Ct. 1230 and cert. denied, 128 S. Ct. 1231 (2008). In its ruling, the court stated, in part:

In sum, we conclude that the flood exclusions in the plaintiffs' policies are unambiguous in the context of the facts of this case. In the midst of a hurricane, three canals running through the city of New Orleans overflowed their normal boundaries. The flood control measures, i.e., levees, that man had put in place to prevent the canal's floodwaters from reaching the city failed. The result was an enormous and devastating inundation of water into the city, damaging the plaintiffs' property. This event was a "flood" within that terms' generally prevailing meaning as used in the common parlance, and our interpretation of the exclusions ends there. The flood is unambiguously excluded from coverage under the plaintiffs' all-risk policies, and the district court's conclusion to the contrary was erroneous.

More recently, the Louisiana Supreme Court, in Sher v. Lafayette Ins. Co., No 07-C-2441 (consolidated with 07-C-2443), 2008 WL 928486 (La. Apr. 08, 2008), reversed a lower court's ruling that found the word "flood" ambiguous in the water exclusion of a commercial all-risk policy covering a five-unit apartment building. In its ruling, the court stated, in part:

The term flood is not defined in the policy. In such a case, the word, should, as stated above [elsewhere in the decision], be given its plain, ordinary and generally prevailing meaning ...

The plain, ordinary and generally prevailing meaning of the word "flood" is the overflow of a body of water causing a large amount of water to cover an area that is usually dry. This definition does not depend on locality, culture or even national origin – the entire English speaking world recognizes that a flood is the overflow of a body of water causing a large amount of water to cover an area that is usually dry land. Contrary to the court of appeal's reasoning, this definition does not change or depend on whether the event is a natural disaster or a man-made one – in either case, a large amount of water covers an area that is usually dry. The plain, ordinary and generally prevailing meaning is all-inclusive. Further, of the examples of high water contained in the exclusion and described by the court of appeal as "natural disasters", only one, tides, is exclusively natural – waves, tidal waves, and the overflow of water may either be natural or man-made, [FN2] as may be "floods" ...

[FN2. Waves may be caused by high wind, boats, or even cars driven in high water. Tidal waves are caused by seismic events, such as earthquakes, underwater landslides (which may be natural or man-made), or underground nuclear testing. Water may overflow its natural boundaries because of seasonal rising of the water level, damming, levee breakage, or other natural and man-made causes.]

Furthermore, use of the restrictive definition would lead to absurd results. Using the court of appeal's definition, a homeowner whose house is located outside a protective levee would be excluded from recovering flood damages to his property, while a homeowner whose house is located inside the levee system would be able to recover under the same policy for the same flood water simply because it flowed through a breach in the levee.

Explanation of Changes

After considering the issues raised in recent litigation surrounding the water damage exclusion and to reinforce the scope of the provision, we are introducing endorsements DP 16 09 01 09 and DP 16 10 01 09, Water Exclusion Endorsement, which will replace the current water damage exclusions found in the base Dwelling policies.

The endorsements introduce:

- ◆ Revised language reinforcing the scope of the water exclusion regardless of the cause, that is, water damage caused by an act of nature or otherwise caused. Specific mention is made of various boundary or containment systems such as dams and levees to further highlight this point;
- ◆ Additional references including references to tsunami and storm surge, in order to reinforce the application of the exclusion with respect to such events; and

- ◆ A revised reference to waterborne material which has been positioned to apply uniformly to all aspects of the exclusion.

Additionally, we have made minor editorial changes.

We have also revised DP 04 95, Water Back Up And Sump Discharge Or Overflow, to reflect the changes that we have made to the water damage exclusion.

These revisions will be incorporated into the base policy forms with the next general revision to the Dwelling Policy Program.
